Contrary to popular belief, older people generally do not want to live with their children. Moreover, most adult children __1__ every bit as much care and support to their aging parents as was the case in the "good old days", and roost older people do not feel __2__

About 80% of people 65 years and older have living children, and about 90% of them have__3_ contact with their children. About 75% of elderly parents who don't go to nursing homes live within 30 minutes of at least one of their children.

However, __4__ having contact with children does not guarantee happiness in old age. In fact, some research has found that people who are most involved with their families have the lowest spirits. This research may be __5__, however, as ill health often makes older people more__6__and thereby increases contact with family members. So it is more likely that poor health, not just family involvement, __7__ spirits.

Increasingly, researchers have begun to look at the quality of relationships, rather than at the frequency of contact, between the elderly and their children. If parents and children share interests and values and agree on childrening practices and religious_8_they are likely to enjoy each other's company. Disagreements on such matters can __9_ cause problems. If parents are angered by their daughter's divorce, dislike her new husband, and disapprove of how she is raising their grandchildren, __10__ are that they are not going to enjoy her visits.
